

Volunteer Opportunities for Those Interested in Dirt at Louisiana Children's Museum

Do you like digging in the dirt? If you do, then consider volunteering at LCM's annual MudFest!

MudFest at LCM is a brand-new festival taking place on Saturday, April 23, that focuses on playing with one of nature's messiest resources: mud! New Orleans and coastal Louisiana demonstrate the perfect blend of earth and water, and MudFest will highlight the importance of that relationship through fun, dirty, hands-on activities.

Mud Fest's main feature is an enormous pile of dirt! Three trucks' worth of soil surrounded by activity stations give guests the opportunity to explore the magic of mud. Volunteers would facilitate play with guests as they make a mud pie, paint with mud, build habitats, clean up at the "spa," and generally get messy in a massive mound of dirt."

For any questions and to sign-up,
contact our Volunteer Manager: Chris Small

(504) 266-2412

volunteer@lcm.org

15 Henry Thomas Dr.
New Orleans, 70124